Progress copy.

Artemus Ward at the Tower of London.

I skurcely need inform you that your excellent Tower is very pop'lar with the people from the agricultooral districks, and it was cheefly them class which I found waitin at the gates the other mornin.

I saw at once that the Tower was established on a firm basis. In the entire history of firm basices I doh't find a basis more firm than this one.

"You have no Tower in America?" said a man in the crowd, who had somehow detected my denomination.

"Alars! no," I ansered; "we boste of our enterprise and improvements, and yit we air devoid of a Tower. America, o my onhappy country, thou hast got no Tower! It's a sweet Boon."

The gates was opened after a while, and we all purchist tickets, and went into a waitin room.

"My frens," said a pale-faced little man in black close, "this is a sad day."

"Inasmuch as to how?" I asked.

"I mean it is sad to think that so many people have been killed within these gloomy walls. My frens, let us drop a teer!"

"No," I said, "you must excuse me. Others may drop one if they feel like it; but as for me, I decline. The early managers of this institoo-tion were a bad lot, and their crimes were trooly orful; but I can't sob for those who died four or five hundred years ago. If they was my own relatives I couldn't. It's absurd to shed sobs over things which occurred durin' the rain of HENRY THE THREE. Let us be cheerful," I continnered. "Look at the festiv Warders, in their red flannil jackets. They are cheerful, and why should it not be thusly with us?"

A Warder new took us in charge, and showed us the Trater's Gate, the armers and things.—The Trater's Gate is about wide enuff to admit twenty traters abrest, I should jedge; but beyond this, I could'nt see that it was superior to gates in general.

Traters, I will here remark, are a onfortnit class of people. If they wasn't they wouldn't be traters. They conspire to bust up a country—they fail, and they're traters. They bust her, and they become statesmen and heroes.

Take the case of Gloster, afterward Old Dick the Three, who may be seen at the Tower, on horseback, in a heavy tin overcoat—take Mr. Gloster's case. Mr. G. was a conspirator of the basist dye, and if he'd failed, he would have been hung on a sour apple tree. But Mr. G. succeeded and become great. He was slewed by Col. Richmond, but he lives in history, and his equestrian figger may be seen daily for a six-pence, in conjunction with other eminent persons, and no extra charge for the Warder's able and bootiful lectur.

There's one king in this room who is mounted onto a foamin steed, his right hand grasping a barber's pole. I didn't learn his name.

The room where the daggers and pistils and other weppins is kept is interestin. Among this collection of choice cuttlery I notist the bow and arrer which those hot-heded old chaps used to conduct battles with. It is quite like the bow and arrer used at this day by ceftin tribes of American Injuns, and they shoot em off with such a excellent precision that I almost signed to be a Injun, when I was in the Rocky Mountin region. They are a pleasant lot, them Injuns. Mr. Cooper and Dr. Catlin have told us of the red man's wonderful eloquence, and I found it so. Our party was stopt on the plains of Utah by a band of Shoshones, whose chief said, "Brothers! the pale-face is is welcome.—Brothers! the sun is sinkin in the West, and Wa-na-bucky she will soon cease speakin.—Brothers! the poor red man belongs to a race which is fast becomin extink." He then whooped in a shrill manner, stole all our blankets and whisky, and fled to the primeval forest to conceal his emotions.

I will remark here while on the subjek of Injuns, that they are in the main a very shaky set, with even less sense than the Fenians, and when I hear philanthropists bewailin the fack that every year "carries the noble red man nearer the settin sun," I simply have to say that I am glad of it, tho' it is rough on the settin' sun. They call you by the sweet name of brother one minit, and the next they scalp you with their Thomashawks. But I wander. Let us return to the Tower.

At one end ot the room where the weppins is kept, is a wax figger of Queen Elizabeth, mounted on a fiery stuff hoss, whose glass eye flashes with pride, and whose red morocco nostril dilates hawtily, as it conscious of the royal burden he bears. I have associated Elizabeth with the Spanish Armady. She's mixed up with it at the Surry Theater, where "Troo to the Core" is bein acted, and in which a full bally core is introjuced on board the Spanish Admiral's ship, givin the audiens the idee that he intends openin a moosic hall in Plymouth the moment he conkers the town. But a very interesting drammer is "Troo to the Core," notwithstanding the conduck of the Spanish Admiral; and very nice it is in Queen Elizabeth to make Martin Truegold a baronet.

The Warder showed us some instrooments of tortur, such as thumb-screws, throat-collars, etc., statin that these were conkered from the Spanish Armady, and addin what a crooil people the Spaniards was in them days, which clissited from a bright-eyed little girl of about twelve summers the remark that she tho't it was rich to talk about the crooilty of the Spaniards usin thumb-screws, when we was in a tower where so menney poor people's heds had been cut off. This made the Warder stammer and turn red.

I was so pleased with the little girl's brightness that I could have kissed the dear child, and I would it she had been six years older.

I think my companions intended making a day of it, for they all had sandwiches, sassiger, etc. The sad looking man who had wanted us to drop a tear afore we started to go round, flinged sich quantities of sassige into his mouth, that I expected to see him choke hisself to death. He said to me in the Beachamp Tower, where the poor prisoners writ their onhappy names on the cold walls, "This is a very sad sight."

"It is, indeed," I ansered. "You're black in the face. You shouldn't eat sassige in public without some rehearsals beforehand. You manage it orkwardly."

"No, he said, "I mean this sad room."

Indeed, he was quite right. Tho' so long ago these things happened, I was very glad to get away from this gloomy room and go where the rich and sparkling Crown Jewils is kept. I was so pleased with the Queen's Crown that it occurred to me what a agreeable surprise it wood be to send a sim'lar one home to my wife; and I asked the Warder what was the vally of a good, well-conditioned Crown like that. He told me, but on siferin up with a pensil the amount of funs I have in the Joint Stock Bank, conclooded I'd send for a genteel silver watch instid.

And so I left the Tower. It is a solid and commandingedefis, but I deny that it is cheerful. I bid it adoo without a pang.

I was droven to my hotel by the most melancholly driver of a four-wheel that I ever saw. He heaved a deep sigh as I gave him two shillins. "I'll give you six d's more," I said, "if it hurts you so."

"It isn't that," he said, with a hart-rendin groan, "it's only a way I have. My mine's upset to-day. I at one time tho't I'd drive you into the Thames. I've been readin all the deadly papers to try and understand about Governor Ayre, and my mind is totterin. It's really wonderful I didn't drive you into the Thames."

I asked the unhappy man what his number was, so I would redily find him in case I should want him agin, and bade him good-bye. And then I tho't what a frolicksome day I'd made of it.

Respectfully, &c.,

ARTEMUS WARD.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, SEATON GALES, } Editors.

Monday Evening, Nov. 12, 1866.

THE LEGISLATURE meets in this City on Monday next, the 19th. inst.

A Sign of the Times.

We copy, in another column, an article from the National Intelligencer, noticing a call by a committee of the Soldiers and Sailor's Union of Washington, D. C. to their comrades, to attend a mass meeting in that city, on the 1st. of December. The Intelligencer asserts, upon reliable authority, that the object is to establish a permanent organized force at Washington, not provided for by law, subject to the orders of Congress.

Such an organization is revolutionary, and, the Intelligencer thinks, portends mischief. The spirit evinced by the Radical party, North, bodes nothing but evil, yet we are not prepared to believe that the Northern people are ready to sanction measures which must embroil the country again in a sanguinary conflict, which must result in a military despotism and the utter destruction of the Republic. The history of Republics in the past affords no comfort to the friends of peace and free government for any long period. It was the almost certain apprehension of the utter destruction of the Republic that led us to oppose, with all our power in before, and down to 1861, any and every movement to break up the Union. For the same reasons, we cannot now give our sanction to any unconstitutional or demoralizing movement, leading to the destruction of the Republic.

No human mind can foretell what destiny now awaits the country. The war spirit has been aroused in the land and its demoralization has hatched the egg of Jacobinism and misrule.—Where it will end, none can certainly predict, yet the friends of American liberty everywhere, North or South, have cause to shudder and fear.

We believe the Southern people have no desire again to mingle in strife and war. Their fixed purpose, we believe, is to sustain the Constitution and to submit to the law. They will not disgrace themselves by their own acts or soil their sacred honor. They will do nothing to give the North just cause of offence, and if the Republic is ruined, they will not be the initiating parties to so sad a catastrophe.

Meanwhile, the condition of public affairs demands the earnest efforts of the wisest and best men of the land, to save the country. It is no time for mere partizan effort, but the Republic is in danger, and it behooves every man, who loves the country, to be cool, thoughtful and sober. Especially should the godly of the land betake themselves to prayer. The destinies of the nation are in the hand of Jehovah. His people every where should call upon Him. Special prayer should be made for the President and for the Congress, that Jehovah may guide and control them.

Immigration to this State.

We are glad to see among our people a growing interest in inducing immigration to this State. Meetings have been held in the State, recently, to promote the object. A few days ago, a very respectable meeting was held at Salisbury to encourage the movement.

We need, and greatly need, capital and skilled labor in this State, in order to recuperation. Our people generally feel this, and we believe they are ready to put forth every effort to accomplish it.

Wherever intelligent, enterprising men are to be found, with or without capital, who are seeking new fields of enterprise, whether they are citizens of the Northern States or of Europe, North Carolina has work for them and our people gladly welcome them. We want men of capital first, because our own means have been destroyed, yet we have a country rich in available resources to be developed.

The State needs greatly, intelligent, skilful artizans and mechanics, to set in motion foundries, machine shops and mechanical operations everywhere. No country can thrive without intelligent, industrious mechanics. And we doubt if any country in the world needs them more, or can more profitably employ them, than the South.

The studied efforts of the enemies of the South to impress the Northern mind with the idea that Northern men are not safe among us, is a shameless libel upon our people. No where are industrious, enterprising men, who come to improve their fortunes, safer than here. No where can capital be more profitably employed.

If our people, and those who come among us to develope the resources of the country, are not molested in our pecuniary and industrial arrangements by the party which controls the political destinies of the country, if that party does not purpose to destroy the South utterly, those who desire to come South, need not be uneasy or disturbed by their fears of our people. Our people want peace and harmony. They are seeking for bread and for the recuperation of the South. They are tired of politics and commotion. The pecuniary interests of the people give them more concern than any thing else, yet they are anxious for the preservation of the Constitution and the Union.

THE RADICALS are stronger than the Conservatives of the North. They can also outnumber the South. But were the Conservative strength of the North backed up by the solid vote of the whole South, the majority against Radicalism and Congress would be overwhelming. That is the "verdict" which we wish to see, because that will be the verdict of the whole country. Nothing short of that can be regarded as the "voice of the people;" and so long as the South is denied the expression of her opinions upon questions deeply affecting her destinies only, she should and will protest against a party and partial vote being regarded as a settlement of the controversy.

Five of our Episcopal Bishops are now in Europe for the benefit of their health.

Georgia.

We have heretofore published a meagre abstract of the message of the Governor of Georgia to the Legislature of that State. We have been so impressed with the calm and statesmanlike manner in which he discusses the proposed Constitutional amendment, that we make, for the information and gratification of our readers, the following editorial summary of his argument:

In regard to the first section, it says that whether the object in proposing this change be the extension of the elective franchise to persons of African descent (nearly all of whom are notoriously unqualified for it,) or a further diminution of the already relatively small weight of the Southern States in the administration of the government, the adoption of this amendment will certainly force upon them a choice between those evils. If the former be the real object, the latter alternative must be regarded simply as a penalty for refusing it. In the North, says the Governor:

"The selection of the one or the other alternative will be only a matter of taste, no great public interest being involved. If the franchise be extended, the number thus newly admitted to the ballot will be so small that no appreciable effect upon popular elections can result. If refused, the number excluded from the enumeration in fixing the ratio of representation will still be so small, that the consequent reduction would not be seriously felt, and in some instances would probably be merely fractional, producing no curtailment at all.—Now, look to the other class of States. There the number of voters proposed to be enfranchised, and wholly unprepared for the trust, would be immense, and the disturbance in the motive power of republican machinery incalculable. There, too, on the other hand, if the franchise be withheld, the reduction of representation would be vast. Is there fairness, is there justice, in a proposed change so different in different portions of a country, united under a common government for the common weal? Would the enforcement of such a change by a majority, it could not harm, upon a minority it must ruin, bespeak magnanimity."

The third section, which disfranchises all the leaders of the "rebellion," is emphatically condemned as excluding a large portion of the people of the South, and as both unjust and dishonoring. He says that the South cannot spare the men who are proscribed from her public service.

But to none of the clauses of the amendment does the governor offer more serious objections than to the fifth and last, which gives to Congress the power to enforce the other clauses of the amendment by "appropriate legislation."—Against this he employs the usual argument that it will throw open the door to the greatest possible license in Congressional legislation, and leave the rights and powers of the States at the mercy of the Federal government, where experience has proved that they cannot safely be placed.

In view of all these cogent reasons against the ratification of the amendment, he urges its rejection, and insists, that although it was right and proper for the South, at the termination of hostilities, to surrender its antagonism and place itself in strict accord with the government, yet it cannot, with justice to itself, sanction changes of the fundamental law palpably wrong and injurious to the whole body politic, and that "to submit to injurious changes in the constitution, when forced upon a State, according to the forms prescribed for its amendment, would be one thing; to participate in making them, under duress, against her sense of right and justice, would be a very different thing.—The difference, in principle, is as broad as that which distinguishes martyrdom from suicide.—Farbetter calmly await a returning sense of justice, in a consequent reflux of the tide now running strongly against us."

"WATCH AND WAIT."—The only alternative presented to Southern people is to "bide their time." Their only hope is in the necessities of the Northern masses. If these masses can be made to see and understand that the Jacobin policy towards the South is being carried out at the expense of Northern interest; that it is paralyzing the industry of that great producing section, preventing the development of its mighty resources, and in this way compelling the laborers of the North to carry on their shoulders the entire amount of taxation necessary to support the government, their selfishness, though they may have no magnanimity, and may be filled with bitter and revengeful feelings, will prompt them to insist that the South shall be let alone, and not only let alone, but put once more upon its feet, that it may recover from its losses and dissolutions, and be again enabled to contribute to the general welfare. Whether or not they will ever be able to see through their malignant prejudices to the fact that the oppression of the South is an expensive indulgence, remains to be seen, but it is the only hope of the South for security and relief.

PARDONED.—The President has issued pardons for Franklin and J. W. Thompson, of Onslow county. The papers are now in the Executive office.

THE HEROES OF THE SOUTH.—We have been favored with an inspection of a copy of a most splendid painting of the heroes of the South, photographed by Mr. A. Hargues, of this city, in the highest style of art. The group consists of all the leading Confederate generals, with their beloved and far famed Commander-in-Chief, Gen. Lee, in the centre. This work of photographic art is one of the most valuable mementoes of the late protracted struggle in which our Southern fellow-citizens risked their all. As such it should find a place and a home in every family throughout the South, for the portrait of each of these gallant generals will call forth reminiscences of the past, what those belonging to them did to support the Confederate cause, and the many hard-fought fields in which they contended. We cordially recommend this picture, not merely on account of its historical value, but also as a highly finished work of art—an honor to, and a household ornament for, the people of the South. The size of the picture is about thirty-six inches by twenty-four inches, is sold for three dollars, and can be had by applying at THE WATCHMAN Publishing Agency.—N. Y. Watchman.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I saw, a few days ago, the Card of our worthy and highly esteemed friend, Algernon S. Barbee, of Chapel Hill, announcing himself as a Candidate for Engrossing Clerk to the next General Assembly; and feeling a very deep interest in the success and prosperity of our young men,—particularly those who are so well fitted and qualified to fill such positions as I deem our young friend,—prompts me to say a few words through the columns of your valuable paper in his behalf. I have known Mr. Barbee long and intimately, and feel no reluctance in recommending him to the members of the approaching Legislature as a young gentleman every way worthy and well qualified to fill the position which he so modestly seeks and richly deserves. He has been connected for the past year with the Raleigh & Gaston & the Atlantic & N. C. Railroads, as a General Travelling Agent, which agencies, I learn from the most reliable authority, he not only filled with much fidelity and advantage to the roads and credit to himself, but to the entire satisfaction of the officers of said roads.—Should he be elected, I feel satisfied that the utmost confidence may be placed in his ability to discharge the duties of the position.

The Speakership.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—As there is no one elected to the House of Commons, who has ever presided over that body, and thus acquired experience in Parliamentary law, and might thus have a claim to the Speakership, I take the liberty of suggesting the name of Col. THOS. S. KENAN, of Duplin. Col. Kenan was a practicing lawyer before the war, and has since returned to his profession. He has fine talents, great industry, and has made Parliamentary law his study,—more so than probably any member elect of the House. He also represents a section of the State which is at present entitled to consideration. The popularity of Col. K. is unbounded among those who have ever known him. With most genial feelings and great suavity of manners is combined great decision and unflinching integrity. Let his name, then, be before thatbody, when choosing their presiding officer. D.

[From the New York World.]

What Next?—And Next?

What use will the Radicals make of their victory, now they have won it?

As regards the South, they have already gone to the length of their tether. After passing over the veto of the President, their Civil Rights bill, and their Freedman's Bureau bill, they could proceed no farther except by proposing amendments to the Constitution. But amendments being nullities till ratified by three-fourths of the States, the resistance of the South is more effective in respect to them than the Presidential veto is in respect to ordinary laws. The veto can be overcome by two-thirds of both Houses, but the negative of thirteen States (Kentucky, Maryland and Deleware make up the thirteen) on a proposed amendment, can in no way be overcome till the number of States reaches fifty-two—a larger number than we are ever likely to have.

The South, then, has nothing worse to fear, as a consequence of the late elections, than a protracted exclusion from Congress. Negro suffrage cannot be forced on them except by an amendment to the Constitution, which they can checkmate. New penalties for treason are equally impossible, by the prohibition to pass ex post facto laws. The old penalties have been remitted by the President's proclamation of amnesty and his individual pardons. The State governments which have been formed in the South cannot be upset, because Congress never comes in contact with them except in judging of their competency to furnish credentials to members of that body, Congress having already done its utmost against the South, that section has nothing to fear in consequence of these elections, beyond what it already suffers.

Congress being powerless to wreak additional vengeance on the South, will probably concentrate their hostility upon the President. If they could replace him by a Radical, they might admit the Southern Representatives without endangering their power, and thus escape the odium—an odium which will grow—of preventing a restoration of the Union. With every Southern Senator and Representative in his seat, the Radicals would still have a majority both with this Congress and the next. But so long as we have a President disposed to veto their bills, they would surrender their power by admitting the South. With the South excluded, the Radicals are too strong for the veto; with the South admitted, the veto would be too strong for them. If they could depose President Johnson, their chief objection to the immediate restoration of the South, would be the Southern vote in the Presidential election.

The key to the political situation is the ability of the Congress just elected to pass, in the winter of 1869, a joint resolution declaring that the Southern electoral votes shall not be counted. If they were insured against a veto, they could pass that or any other resolution they chose, even if the South were represented; but the inconsistency of admitting the Southern States to Congress, and at the same time excluding them from the Presidential election, would be too damaging to be incurred. We may therefore be certain that, whether the President is impeached or not, the South will be shut out of Congress till after the Presidential election.

Seeing that they cannot inflict new punishments on the South, the Radicals will probably try to make a scapegoat of President JOHNSON, and accumulate their vengeance on him. Their hatred even of Jefferson Davis has become softened by the lapse of time, by his long suffering as an imprisoned invalid, and especially by the fact that he has no power to obstruct their designs. If the Radicals were allowed to decide which of the two should be hung, Jefferson Davis or Andrew Johnson, they would give their voices for releasing the prisoner and executing the President.

The Alabama Legislature will convene at Montgomery, on Monday, the 12th of November. It will elect a United States Senator to succeed Hon. George S. Houston, and will probably act on the constitutional amendment.

It appears that out of twenty-two, odd, thousand votes cast in the Eighth District for Congressional candidates, Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton received eight.

Further Desperate Designs of the Revolutionary Congress—The Grand Mass Welcome to Congress.

Being profoundly impressed with the importance of the struggle through which the country is passing, and of the necessity of preserving the results gained by its triumphs in the field, and more recently at the polls, the undersigned, a committee appointed by the Soldiers' and Sailors' Union of Washington, D. C., do in their name earnestly invite their comrades, the loyal veterans of the Republic, with all other friends of the great cause of the Union and liberty, to meet in a national mass welcome and council to be held in this, the Federal capital, on Saturday, December the 1st, proximo.

We ask your presence to honor and assure protection to the loyal majority in the Thirty-ninth Congress, in whom we recognize faithful guardians of our assailed institutions and able supporters of the principles involved.

Come in your might! By your presence show how sternly loyalty can rebuke treason.—Prove thereby that the threats and insults of a treacherous Executive against the legislative branch of the Government cannot intimidate a free people. Here in the Federal capital must our great struggle culminate in wise and equitable legislation. Here, then, should we assemble to encourage and strengthen Congress—to whose hands the Constitution wisely entrusts the power—to such just action as will make peace permanent and liberty universal.

L. EDWIN DUDLEY.

We are pained and shocked to announce, from many sources of reliable information, that the above call looks to the establishment here en permanence of an organized force, to be subject to the orders of Congress. What they may be, and what disastrous calamities impend over our beloved country, Heaven only knows. But the ferocious counsels of Butler, Wade, and Forney may be carried out by the "sword, smoking with bloody execution."

We are reminded by this of the threats once made by partisans in New York, to organize an army of ten thousand men to encamp upon Capitol Hill to overawe the administration of Andrew Jackson.

New Scientific Toys—Hints for the Coming Christmas.

The London Lancet describes some new scientific toys, which are taking the place of Pharoah's serpents and the magic photographs. It says:

"An eminently popular toy just now,—the "rainbow-bubble,"—is a passing result that was obtained in the course of some abstruse experiments on the refraction of fluid media. It is of exquisite beauty, but its resources as an amusement are not half developed. Thus, it is easy to blow one bubble within another by simply thrusting a fine glass tube charged with the fluid through the very material of the bubble itself, and then blowing an inside sphere. So, also, the fingar, similarly moistened, may be introduced, and the bubble left to hang on a digit, like one of the fruits in Aladin's garden.

Again, the in door fireworks, that are such a screaming delight to the rising generation, represent years of study. The paper which, crumpled, lighted, and thrown into the air, blazes like a meteor, is but a mitigated pyroxoline, one of the many results of the discovery of gun cotton by Schenbein. More curious still are the little matches which throw out beautiful star-spangles, and are known as Japanese fireworks. These are due to a composition which involves the most delicate processes of the pyrotechnic art, and has been known for nearly two centuries as "spur fire." Its perfection depended upon the extent of the trituration of the simple materials, for if the nitre were too minutely pounded the effect ceased. The Japanese have afforded the clew to the mystery, as these matches show that it was necessary for the nitre to be melted before the spur-like sparkles appeared.

Another equally curious, but also somewhat dangerous amusement, consists of little globules appropriately named "crocodiles" tears" and "farmes de diable," which blaze when thrown into the water. These of course consist of potassium in soluble casting.

It would be easy to cite a whole series of illustrations, all proving the remarkable ingenuity with which practical minds turn to account the researches of science, even for the construction of toys. Rightly directed, the new stimulus thus afforded to thought, to investigation, and to that curiosity in action which is one of the roads to knowledge, may prove of far more educational value than the dull, meaningless, and frequently abortive experiments which used to be vastly instructive, and particularly suited to rear the tender thought. In this work Dr. Paris was the pioneer.

The President and the Elections.

A good deal of speculation is indulged in here as to the feelings and opinions of the President with regard to the result of the elections of yesterday. Those who have visited Mr. Johnson this evening find him in very good spirits and not at all disturbed by the political aspect. Many suppose that in view of the results of yesterday's voting the President has some intention of recommending the southern States to adopt the proposed amendment to the Constitution; but those who look for such action on the part of the Executive will be disappointed. Mr. Johnson does not regard it as his duty to make any recommendation on this subject whatever. He will leave the matter in the hands of the southern people, to be disposed of by them without interference or suggestion from him.—If the constitutional number of States shall adopt the amendment, Mr. Johnson will bow to the will of the people thus lawfully expressed. Should the amendment fail, the President may suggest for adoption the two amendments to the Constitution as to taxation and representation heretofore set forth in these dispatches.—New York Times (semi-official.)

The English bench lately decided, at Westminster, that it was a principle of common law that a counsellor, in questioning a witness, should address him in ordinary tones, and in language of respect such as is employed by one gentleman in conversation with another; that such lawyer has no right to question the private business or moral character of a witness, any further than it is apparent they absolutely affect reliability, or touch the case in hand; and that a witness is not bound to answer questions put to him in an insulting or annoying manner.

EXECUTOR'S SALE OF DESIRABLE DWELLING, NICE TOWN LOTS, AND A TRACT OF LAND

Near Warrenton, N. C.

As executor of Dr. Hugh J. Davis, to effect a division among his legatees, I shall sell to the highest bidder, on the 15th day of November, 1866, at his late residence, in the town of Warrenton, N. C., the DWELLING HOUSE and LOT. Also a Lot in front of Dwelling, and a Lot adjoining the Court-House square; and a tract of Land about two miles distant from Warrenton.

The Dwelling is in cottage style, containing ten rooms, and has two basements. Near the centre of the town, surrounded by magnificent oaks, it is in one of the handsomest locations in Warrenton, on a lot of about four and a half acres, having an ample yard and garden well inclosed, with Stables, Kitchen, Smoke House, Dairy, Carriage House, Corn Crib, Servants' House, two good Offices in the yard, a well of excellent water, and is bounded by four streets. This square is sufficiently large, and so arranged as to be divided into two beautiful Building Lots, fronting towards the main part of the town. The Lot in front of the Dwelling is enclosed, contains over an acre, without any building, and is bounded by three streets.

The lot in rear of the Court-House fronts on the street about one hundred and ninety-two (192) feet, and contains about three-fourths of an acre. This lot has a Store, with several rooms, at the north corner, a residence in the centre, with several rooms, and an office with two rooms at the south end.

The tract of Land contains two hundred and eleven acres, in original growth partly, but mostly in second growth pine, and is situated on both sides of the main road to Clark's Bridge. Being so near Warrenton by a good road, this tract is valuable for its fire wood, having been reserved for this purpose, but would make a nice farm.

Possession of Dwelling and Lots given on first of January, 1867, and the tract of Land given up at sale.

TERMS—On the Dwelling, five hundred dollars cash, and on that and the rest of the property a credit of twelve months, from day of possession. Bonds, with satisfactory security, required and title withheld until payment. Inquiries answered.

HONORS TO THE DEAD.—Notwithstanding the exceedingly inclement weather, there was a very general turn-out of our citizens, yesterday afternoon, to pay funereal honors to the soldier-brothers, Major James J. and Capt. Campbell T. Iredell. The demonstration was most proper, creditable and gratifying,—proper, as a tribute of respect to the memory of two brave and estimable young townsmen, who sealed with their blood their devotion to the cause of their State and section, and whose bearing in the field was such as to reflect honor upon their native City; creditable, as an exhibition, upon the part of the community, of a grateful appreciation of high worth and gallant services; and gratifying to those just feelings of pride which the family and friends of the lamented dead must ever cherish, in the recollection of their virtues and their heroic sacrifice.

At the hour designated for the funeral, the Episcopal Church was crowded almost to its full capacity. The remains of the deceased brothers rested on a catafalque in front of the chancel, which fair and sympathizing hands had beautifully festooned with crosses and wreaths of flowers and evergreens. The solemn ritual was read by the Rev. Dr. Mason, when the cortege moved to the City Cemetery,—a number of ex-Confederate soldiers preceding the hearses, and a large portion of the community, of both sexes, following. The falling rain did not deter the young ladies from mingling in the procession, each provided with a floral offering with which to strew the last resting places of the lamented dead—

James Johnston Iredell was Major of the 53rd Regiment of N. C. Troops, Daniel's Brigade.—The writer of this was his College class-mate and knew him intimately up to that sad 10th day of May, 1864, when he fell at his post on the field of Spottsylvania. Possessing a strict sense of personal honor, a gentle and charitable heart, a remarkable regard for the feelings of others and for the high toned amenities of life, and inheriting all the generous qualities of the stock from which he sprung, he was, in the truest sense of that comprehensive word, a gentleman. Green be the turf above him!

Campbell Tredwell Iredell was a Captain in the 47th Regiment N. C. Troops, (Col. Faribault.) Were we to exhaust the language of eulogy, we could not so fittingly pourtray his character as by the narration of a simple and touching incident: Capt. Iredell's arm was shattered by a shell during the terrible carnival of death at Gettysburg, when, in that mutilated condition, he started on foot for the field hospital, some two or three miles off. Pressed repeatedly to ride in some of the numerous ambulances that were carrying the wounded to the rear, his invariable reply was: "No, let those who are more badly wounded, who cannot walk, have the precedence." The exhaustion and loss of blood, produced by the time and effort necessary to enable him to reach the hospital, so prostrated the gallant young man, that he sank beneath amputation of the shattered limb, and died a martyr to his own noble and chivalric unselfishness! It was the grand abnegation re-enacted of Sir Philip Sydney, who, dying on the field of battle, put from his lips a cup of cold water, that it might soothe the agony of a comrade who lay bleeding by his side. Such an act is the proudest legacy that he could have left behind him!

Go to W. Robt. Andrew's, Fayetteville Street, and see those magnificient apples. They are curiosities in the pomological line, and as luscious as they are rare.

THE STATE LIBRARY.—We are indebted to Oliver H. Perry, Esq., Librarian, for a "Catalogue of Books belonging to the North Carolina State Library', prepared by him and published by authority of the General Assemby. The Catalogue, embracing the titles of books, number of volumes, case and shelf, in the State Library proper, the Libraries of the Senate and House of Commons, and of the Supreme Court, makes a handsome volume of 136 pages. It is gotten up with admirable method and convenience of reference, and reflects great credit upon the industry and taste of Mr. Perry, as the neat arrangement of the Libraries themselves does upon his peculiar adaptation to the position which he fills so acceptably.

In looking over this Catalogue, we are impressed with the fact that the State Library is particularly rich in valuable works of History. There are also a large number of volumes of State papers, which will be a fruitful mine to the future historian of the State. Mr. Perry deserves much commendation in this connection. When he assumed the duties of his position, twelve years ago, there was not a volume of the newspapers of the State in it. The files of the Raleigh Register, alone, running from November 1799 up to the year 1863, are invaluable in a historical point of view.

Upon the whole, the Library, though smaller than could be desired, is a collection of rare and valuable works, and isevery way creditable to the honorable Board of Trustees, under whose supervision it is placed.

GENERAL NEWS.

Among the agreeable features of the late election, the most agreeable, next to the triumph in Maryland, was the election of Jas. Brooks in the Eighth (city) District. Mr. Brooks was turned out of his seat in the present Congress by a strict party vote, simply and exclusively for the crime of being a Conservative. His constituents return him with six thousand majority! and thus "make treason odious."

Whilst parties are babbling about guarantees against rebellions, the people of the United or disunited States would like to have some security for good government. Rebellions may occur and disappear, and leave life, liberty and property secure, but the principles of the government being changed or perverted admits only of remedies hard to apply.—Louisville Democrat.

The Fredericksburg Herald says: Whatever may be either the reason or result of these elections, one thing is proven: the South has gained nothing by any effort at conciliation. For the future, patient endurance, silent and manly submission, may be unavoidable: but no more cringing, no more "policy," no more dirt-eating.

The Presidents of the Virginia Central, Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac, Richmond and Danville, Norfolk and Petersburg and Southside Railroad Companies have generously agreed to give a free return passage to all persons traveling on their roads to attend the Agricultural Convention which meets in Richmond on the 20th inst.

The last novelty in the way of locomotion is to be among the many wonders of the great exhibition. It consists of a mechanical horse, which trots, gallops or walks, as may suit the pleasure of the rider. He even prances after the most approved style, and neighs when that sound is agreeable to its possessor.

The Nobles' "Gazette," of Moscow, lately contained this curious phrase:

"Until now, thanks to the visible protection of Providence, the cholera had only attacked the lower classes; but at present the terrible scourge attacks the middle class and even the nobility."

It appears from official statistics recently published, that during the second quarter of the present year the number of legitimate children born in Paris was 9,081; of illegitimate, 3,854. In the same period there were 4,877 marriages, and 11,114 deaths.

A manly foe can never become a malignant enemy. It is the men who skulk in the hour of danger that are truculent in the hour of safety. It is so in the South. It is so here. The most exacting Radicals are those who kept out of harm's way.—Nat. Intelligencer.

A lot of rowdies undertook to break up a religious meeting on South Fork, Ritchie county, West Virginia, a few days ago. Some of the brethren pitched in and cleaned them out, on the principle, as one of them expressed it, "That it was as honorable to fight for the Methodist Church as it was to pray for it."

Governor Brownlow's message to the Legislature of Tennessee discusses the question of negro suffrage, and expresses the opinion that President Johnson and others are endeavoring to overthrow the State Government.

Artemus Ward says, "Let us be happy, and live within our means, even if we have to borrer money to do it with."

There is much interest felt to learn the decision of Judge Bartol in the Habeas Corpus case. It is expected to cover the whole ground as to the legality of Gov. Swann's action and the consequent legality or illegality in Judge Bond's Court. It is currently believed that Gov. Swann will immediately summon an extra session of the Legislature, when questions of great moment to the people of the State will be submitted to its consideration.

DIED,

In this City, on yesterday morning, the 11th inst., HAMDEN S. SMITH, in the 42nd. year of his age.

The intelligence of the decease of this estimable gentleman has caused universal regret in this community, where he was born, had always lived and was so deservedly popular. It may, with entire truth, be said of him, that he "died without an enemy." Unselfish and amiable in all his impulses, he had a heart full of charity and of all kind sympathies.—This admirable trait of character, added to a vigorous and cultivated intellect, rendered his companionship ever agreeable and genial. His domestic affections were strong and ardent, and his death makes a sad void in an afflicted household.

INFALLIBLE YEAST POWDERS.

Scientific men, who thoroughly understand the subject, concur with great unanimity in saying that nothing exerts such a deleterious influence against health as bad bread. The remedy is at hand in SIMPSON'S INFALLIBLE YEAST POWDERS, the value of which is thus certified:

RALEIGH, Aug. 24, 1866.

I have tested the Yeast Powders you manufacture and can recommend them as vastly superior to any other ever used by me. In addition to the lightness and sweetness of the bread, the powders are economical, as one-third the lard usually required will answer in the making of either loaf bread or biscuit. For pastries and cakes they are excellent.
VIRGINIA A. ORR.

The price of these powders per package is 25 cts. or 75 cts. per pound. To be had at Wm. Simpson's Confectionary Store, Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

RALEIGH, Aug. 23, 1866.

This is to certify that I have used Mr. Simpson's Yeast Powders and find them to be superior to any I have ever used. After trying them once no housekeeper will be satisfied without them.

A New and Grand Epoch in Medicine!

DR. MAGGIEL is the founder of a new Medical System! The quantitarians, whose vast internal doses enfeeble the stomach and paralyze the bowels, must give precedence to the man who restores health and appetite, with from one to two of his extraordinary Pills, and cures the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and all healing Salve. These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast superseding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the (so-called) remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended. Maggil's Pills are not of the class that are swallowed by the dozen, and of which every box full taken creates an absolute necessity for another. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, create an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no griping, and no reaction in the form of constipation. If the liver is affected, its functions are restored; and if the nervous system is feeble, it is invigorated. This last quality makes the medicines very desirable for the wants of delicate females. Ulcerous and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disinfectant power of Maggiel's Salve. In fact, it is announced that Maggiel's Billious, Dyspeptic and Diarrhoea Pills cure where all others fail. While for Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Cuts and all abrasions of the skin, Maggiel's Salve is infallible. Sold by J. MAGGIEL, 11 Pine St., New York, and all Druggists, at 25 cts. per box.

A New Era In Medicine!

☞ Let the Suffering and Diseased read the following.

☞ Let all who have been given up by Doctors, and spoken of as incurable, read the following.

☞ Let all who can believe facts and can have faith in evidence, read the following:

Know all men by these presents, That on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-Six, personally came Joseph Haydock to me, known as such, and being duly sworn, deposed as follows: That he is the sole general agent for the United States, and dependencies thereof, for preparations or medicines known as MAGGIEL'S PILLS and SALVE, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMETTER,

Wall Street, New York.

June 1, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Dr. doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss.

JAMES MYERS,
116 Avenue D.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have been cured by Dr. Maggiel's Pills.

WILSON HARVEY,
New York, April 7, 1865. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a flask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me by him about eight weeks after the accident.

New York, Jan. 11, 1866.

My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder; I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal; I tried Maggiel's Salve, and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true, and any body can now see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 2nd Avenue.

J. HARDY,
119 Georick Street.

Extract from Various Letters:

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Pills are marvelous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My patient of a morning is now cured."

"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears and the noise left."

"Send me two boxes; I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar; your price is twenty-five cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Salve by return mail."

I have over 200 such Testimonals

As this, but want of space compels me to conclude.

The tract is situated on Neuse River, six miles East of Raleigh, on the Tarboro' Road, adjoining the lands of David Hinton. It contains from of land,—from THREE TO FOUR HUNDRED of which are cleared. About 100 acres are fine low grounds, not liable to over-flow. This is considered one of the best Cotton Plantations in the County, and the bottom land will always produce enough Corn to sustain it.

IN addition to the loss and prompt payment of Justus Kinseys policy for $5,000, is now added another loss, by the death of J. E. Weeks, of Elizabeth City, N. C. for $5,000, and again promptly settled by the Ætna.

By this practical illustration of the advantages of Life Insurance, it is commended to the confidence and support of every one desirous of providing for surviving loved ones.

As an investment merely, a Life Insurance Policy is as safe an investment of funds as can be made.—The principal, generally, is not only many times in excess of the amount paid, but in a sound company it has no rival for security, and no species of Government bonds are a more desirable investment.

M'ILWAINE & CO.,

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN STAPLE & FANCY DRY GOODS.

No. 79 Sycamore Street,

Petersburg, Virginia,

TAKE PLEASURE IN INFORMING THEIR friends and the trade generally that the steady increase of their business has rendered it necessary for them to add two rooms to their Dry Goods Department, together with a large and convenient entrance from Tabb street, which arrangement gives them a most spacious Sales-room, well lighted, and enables them by this increased accommodation to add largely to their Fall Supply.

They beg leave to invite particular attention to their extensive assortment of

made to order under the supervision of Mr. A. S. SHAFER, whose long experience in this department of business, in this city, has made him familiar with the wants of Merchants in Virginia and North Carolina. Anticipating a heavy Trade this Fall, their stock will be found unusually large, embracing a general assortment of

American and Foreign

STAPLE AND FANCY DRY GOODS,

together with a full line of

which having been purchased for cash, they have no hesitation in saying to the Trade, that they are prepared to offer such inducements as will insure satisfaction.

Capt. EDWARD GRAHAM and Mr. JOHN McNEECE have charge of this Department, and will be pleased to exhibit our stock to buyers visiting this market. McILWAINE & CO.
